This deficiency was explained by the fact that most of the delegates had a copy of yesterday morning's Heraid in their inside pockets, which contained a good contrait of Mr. Cannon, However, of portrait of Mr. Cannon. However, af-ter the convention had been in session some time a small portrait of Mr. Can-

He declared, however, that he would make a speech, and if he desired he would sing before he got through; but when he called on the members to learn a little song, which he proposed to read, and the convention called manimously for him to sing it, he backed down completely.

"I want to say that no such unfair methods as the one proposed by Mr. Critichlow can be worked on this convention. Where is young Utah; where is the division movement, if such a deal can be worked in a Republican convention? When, after a contest has proceeded, as far as this, one man gets up and turns over his vote to one of his opponents, telling his supporters how to vote. I want to say that I for one do not propose to stand by and be a nerty to the deal. Is old methods going to obtain here in Utah, or has a new era dawned? Not if this convention permits such a barriage the morning such a barriage the monitories of the consumated."

This settled the cat-hold. Hirribut got the nomination on the next ballot, receiving III votes to B4 for Chambers.

The convention then proceeded with the nomination of other candidates, normalization of the consumated in the normalization of the consumated the nomination of other candidates, normalization of the consumated the normalization of the normalization of the normalization of the consumated the normalization of the normali tions.

They are: First ward, C. N. Steevalt: Second ward, A. R. Howard; Third ward, A. J. Cropsey; Fifth ward, J. N. Kimball.

The Democrats of this county should take warning from the Republican convention, and not lose their reason in an unsteamly scramble for the county offlors. That the convention yesterday caused a great many heart burnings and aroused the baser passions of many men, goes without snying. Good curely can scarcely be expected to result from a convention where greed seemed to be the prevailing incentive seemed to be the prevailing incentive gales.

They were there to deliberate for the best interests of their party in this county. But party interest was newhere as compared to that of the individual.

All Democrats who are good citizens—and one who is not is an exception—would much rather meet opponents in the field who are inspired by a patriotic desire to be of service to their country than to be pitted against men whose sole at it is self and self-aggrandisement rather than the public good. It is not to be understood that all the men who composed that convention yesterday, or all the All Democrats who are good citi-

Candidates nominated even, were actuated by the motives above referred to; but the majority were, and that the sentiment of personal interest controlled the convention cannot be successfully disputed. Democrats so far have held aloof from the scramble going on for the county offices, and they should continue to do so. It is proper that men should be candidates for places within the gift of the convention, and that they should strive to obtain them. But there is a difference between an earnest but friendly contest, and a determination to win, no matter what means have to be employed.

That the sun shines on the just and the unjust was evidenced by yester-day being such a beautiful day, and the Republican convention in town. Alex Loeb, the successful merchant who made such a good run on the Democratic ticket a year ago against heavy odds, is being urged by his friends for county collector on the Democratic ticket. Democratic ticket.

Is it to be wondered at that Judge Patton was not able to remain with his delegation from the Fourth ward yesterday. A sudden change of climate often affects a man's nervous system, and if the climatic condition of that Republican convention would not be wearing on the nerves of a former Democrat, then he must be made of cast iron.

Colonel Payton has accepted an in-made of cast iron.

Colonel Payton has accepted an invitation to speak in the interest of Democracy in Iron, Beaver and adjoining counties. The gentleman from West Virginia, the home of Wilson, will certainly entertain his audiences with sound Democratic doctrine, presented in a most pleasing manner.

Before balloting for nominations for country collector commenced, a delegate from the country tried to ring in a resolution, pleding the candidates for county offices in a cardidates for country offices to accept a reduction of 35 per cent in salaries. This produced consternation among the candidates for country offices to accept a reduction of 35 per cent in salaries. This produced consternation among the candidates and their friends. Mr. Heywood, of the Second ward, cautioned the convention to deal gingerly with that resolution. He said down in Georgia (a Democratic procedage) it had been held that men elected after being nominated by a convention when a similar resolution had been adopted, were guilty of bribory and the election was void. This stargered until the third ballot, the candidates being T, B. Huribut, W. F. Critchow was provened by the convention of the first three candidates ran pretty nearly even. The balloting for the remaining offices was still in progress at 12 o'clock last evening, with very little prospect of finishing the job or adjourning before morning.

So far as known wint was termed the slate ticket was successful, although its success caused a great deal of ill-feeling.

It was learned that a part of the candidates for delegate to the constitutional convention in the city had been agreed upon by ward delegations.
